Dear Emory Parents and Families:

Spring break is over and we are down to the home stretch for the semester. Students will be feeling the pressures of getting assignments completed and studying for finals. One of the beauties of the college environment is that there is always someone to talk to about stress, frustrations, or just everyday annoyances. Family members provide much of this support, but it’s good to remind our students that Resident Assistants, professors, staff members, and fellow students within the Emory community also support them. We’re all in this together, and helping one another makes for a better Emory!

In addition, we continue to appreciate your questions or suggestions. Please email family@emory.edu to contact us.

Hail the Gold & Blue!
