

EMORY PARENT COUNCIL

The Emory Parent Council is a diverse, deeply engaged, philanthropic group of dedicated parents representing the families of more than 7,000 undergraduate students.

“The Emory Parent Council helps to advance Emory’s mission through parents who offer their time, talent, and treasure. It is a great opportunity to have a voice with leadership, faculty, and staff, and to build your own community, alongside your students, with other Emory parents and families. We are so excited to be at the helm of this amazing group of passionate individuals.”

ENGAGEMENT

The Emory Parent Council meets twice annually – in the fall, concurrent with Emory Family Weekend, and in the spring. Members serve two-year, renewable terms. Members act as ambassadors for Emory, strengthening relationships between the university and both current and prospective parents, and serve as volunteers or hosts for a variety of regional and campus events throughout the year.

PHILANTHROPY

Through gifts to university initiatives like student flourishing – which helps all students thrive academically, professionally, and personally – the Emory Parent Council provides pace-setting annual support to the parents’ campaign. We ask all members of the EPC to make a suggested annual gift of $10,000 or more to the parent campaign.

BENEFITS

- Expand your access to Emory leaders.
- Connect to an engaged, vibrant parent community.
- Receive special invitations to events in your area.
- Partner with Emory advancement staff to navigate Emory and explore specific areas of interest.

EPC MEMBERS MAY BE ASKED TO:

- Conduct email or phone outreach as part of Emory efforts to welcome new parents and families.
- Identify potential donors from your network.
- Solicit fellow parents for gifts to the annual parent campaign.
- Thank parents for support.
- Serve on host committees, host, and/or participate in various events in your community such as Summer Send-Offs and early decision events.
- Attend Council meetings and events during Emory Family Weekend and in the spring.
